

Maritor: Raising Up Pharaoh epic

5,202 years ago, this 2nd book of the Raising Up Pharaoh epic begins with the princess and husband having escaped Ausgrenor with Bedu friends and hired guides, but separated from their adopted orphans left with Bedu protectors. Pursued by the Ausgrenor kings assassins and blocked by approaching invaders, the couple flees into the Desert of Death following advice of their Bedu friends. Confronting death from an unexpected quarter, they are surprised by a mysterious deliverance, find unforeseen help, and discover a new destiny and hope. Meanwhile, the orphans flee to Aredemor, where the cities of northern Reilend assemble armies to make their stand against the advancing invaders. There'll be no second chance. Thus continues the six-novel Raising Up Pharaoh epic, set among the emerging city-states and nations in the Fertile Crescent at the dawn of written history--as they plant the cultural seeds of today's world. The series is written for readers of all ages. The tone is intense, yet controlled by zooming back the lens to avoid needless close-ups of violence and sexuality. The tale unfolds through the differing viewpoints of the orphans, the couple, others drawn to them, and their foes. The second book's setting ranges through the northwestern mountains of what is now called Iran, throughout Iraq from the southwestern desert across the central Tigris and Euphrates valley and down to the delta with the Gulf, and into northeastern Syria. In later books, the setting expands throughout the Middle East, the Steppes, West and South Asia, and Northwest Africa. Each book has its own maps. The diverse cast speaks a pidgin of proto-Indo-European, proto-Afro-Semitic, and various lost languages such as Harappan. The pidgin is presented in modern U.S. English. The Raising Up Pharaoh novels were edited by Dr. Dennis E. Hensley PhD

From the dishwasher and microwave oven in the kitchen and the clock radio next to your bed, to the cellular phone you hold to your ear—sometimes for hours each day—exposure to EMR is growing and becoming a serious health threat. They dictate the color of our eyes, our complexion and most certainly our susceptibility to develop certain illnesses, among which, Cancer is one that we are most concerned about. Is there a way to determine if we are predisposed and carry a higher risk of developing certain cancers? Can we predict at what age we may develop an illness? And if so, what can, or rather, shall we do about it. Read more...
